

No one has answered for Vucic attack in Srebrenica three years later – SRNA

July 16, 2018

Three years after the attempted murder of then-Serbian Prime Minister Aleksandar Vucic in Potocari, outside Srebrenica, no one has been brought to justice.

Like many other cases in Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Vucic case has ended up unexplained, lying in a “drawer” of the BiH investigative and judicial authorities.

No one in the joint institutions or security or judicial bodies ever mentions the issue now, let alone tells the public who and on whose orders attempted to kill the prime minister of a neighbouring country, who came to a commemoration in Potocari with a sincere intention to pay tribute to innocent victims.
